BETHERS, Neil and Mary Birch

Neil and Mary Bethers were fortunate to live in four different homes while living in the Heber Second Ward. Their first residence was the Owen Buell Apartments, then the Clayton Montgomery Apartments. They then purchased the Chicken farm on 100 North and 500 West, whose former owner was Claude Hicken. After living there for nine years, during which time they spent remodeling and landscaping the property, they sold it to Forrest Giles and acquired the Leo Hatch home on 400 West, where they lived until moving to Provo in 1966.

Neil's first place of employment, at the age of twelve, was with Leon Ritchie working at the Hatchery caring for the chickens and delivering the Salt Lake Tribune to all of Wasatch County.

After leaving Ritchie's, he purchased a two-ton truck and contracted to haul timber out of "The High Uintah Mountains", which he did until going to work for Turner Building Supply both as a truck driver and also as a salesman in the hardware store until 1966, when he went to work for Sears Roebuck Company in Provo as a carpet salesman. This he enjoyed doing until deciding to purchase the franchise for selling and repairing Steam Cleaners and Pressure Equipment.

While living in Heber City, Neil and Mary became the parents of six children: Laurel, Douglas, Marcia, Louise, Janice and Gordon. After moving to Provo, they also adopted a ten year old boy named Ray.

The children all graduated from Provo High school with the exception of Laurel who had graduated from Wasatch High School.

Neil, Mary and all of the children took advantage of living so close to both Utah Technical College and Brigham Young University. At one time there were six of them attending institutions of higher learning.

Neil has had the opportunity to fill three Stake missions for the Latter-day Saint Church. Douglas and Gordon both served two years in South America, Douglas in Brazil and Gordon in Chili. At the present time Neil and Mary are filling a temple mission at the Provo Temple. They have also spent several summers serving as guides at the Provo Temple grounds.

After receiving a Masters degree in Career Guidance Counseling from Brigham Young University, Mary has taught English, Public Speaking, and Psychology of Human Relations at Utah Technical College. She has also been involved with music, giving piano lessons, serving as music chairman, both in Heber 2nd Ward and Provo 27th Ward, singing in choral groups, The Choralettes of Heber City, and the Chauntenettes of Utah Valley.

She has also had the opportunity to be a member of the Freedom Festival Fourth of July committee for the past six years where she is Chairwoman for "The Provo Tabernacle Concert Series".

All of the children are married except Gordon and at the present time Neil and Mary are expecting their twentyfirst grandchild—the oldest of which is twelve years old.
